Dear George,

Several of the managers that once worked with Lee had received the invitations to the memorial golf outing. Since this is an outing that has nothing to do with our chain customers or direct accounts, it should be handled personally by the individuals that want to attend. When I mentioned to Wilmesher that I would be taking a vacation day to attend the event he said that he would see if there was a way that he could get the company to fund a couple of slots without us having to personally pay for the round of golf. To make a long story short, he got us approval for a 4-some of managers and sponsorship of a flag and tee.

Today I received Jim Mallardi's instruction to voucher a 4-some for this event. Since Jim has apparently already committed to Siciliano, Wiley, and Rosati, I will use the four slots that we got from Dave. We will handle sending the information back to the individuals running the event. It's no problem.

The only thing that is hard for me to understand are these customers that worked with Lee for years that he took to numerous golf outing and other high level events.... and they have to have someone pay for them to attend. What can you say?

One last thing, have Jim please explain to Ms. Justo that I couldn't attend because I was called out of town.

Sincerely,

Mark
